ELSEVIER International Journal of Mass Spectrometry and Ion Processes 161 (1997) v–vi

International Journal of Mass Spectrometry and Ion Processes

CONTENTS

An ion source for electical pulse induced desorption
J. Bonk (Bochum, Germany), A. Glasmachers (Wuppertal, Germany) 1
Comments on "Polyatomic ions in thermal ionisation mass spectrometry — challenges and opportunities" [Int. J. Mass Spectrom. Ion Processes, 141 (1995) 149]
B.P. Datta (Mumbai, India) 7
Reply to comments on "Polyatomic ions in thermal ionization mass spectrometry"
S.K. Aggarwal, H.C. Jain (Mumbai, India) 11
Using isotopic disequilibrium of CO_2 to model gas adsorption in mass spectrometric measurements
R. Gonfiantini, S. Valkiers, P.D.P. Taylor, P. De Bièvre (Geel, Belgium) 15
Development of a new high-efficiency thermal ionization source for mass spectrometry
Y. Duan, E.P. Chamberlin, J.A. Olivares (Los Alamos, USA) 27
Generation and assay of $C_6H_xD^+_{(7-x)}$ ($x = 1 - 6$) benzenium ions: a flowing afterglow–selected ion flow tube study
C.H. DePuy, R. Gareyev (Boulder, USA), S. Fornarini (Roma, Italy) 41
Static secondary ion mass spectrometry (SSIMS) of biological compounds in tissue and tissue-like matrices
C.M. John (San Francisco, USA), R.W. Odom (Redwood City, USA) 47
Collision-induced dissociation of 2- and 3-dimensional polycyclic aromatic hydrocarbon cations in a modified ion-trap detector
X. Wang (Concord, Canada), H. Becker (Cottbus, Germany), A.C. Hopkinson (North York, Canada), R.E. March (Peterborough, Canada), L.T. Scott (Chestnut Hill, USA), D.K. Bohme (North York, Canada) 69
Visual representations of simulated three-dimensional ion trajectories in an ion trap mass spectrometer
M. Nappi, C. Weil, C.D. Cleven, L.A. Horn (West Lafayette, USA), H. Wollnik (Giessen, Germany), R.G. Cooks (West Lafayette, USA) 77
Determination of Li and B isotopic composition in the microvolumes of meteorites by a highly sensitive, precise method
M.Sh. Kaviladze, N.V. Gubadze (Tbilisi, Georgia) 87
Design and calculation of an electron impact storage ion source for time-of-flight mass spectrometers
J. Ximen (Beijing, People's Republic of China), Z. Xu (Tianjin, People's Republic of China), Z. Liu (Beijing, People's Republic of China), H. Wollnik (Gissen, Germany) 91
Intramolecular $^{16}O/^{18}O$ variation in carbon dioxide: potential for assessment of environment CO_2fluxes A feasibility study
A.M. Zyakun (Poushchino, Russia), M. Schidlowski (Mainz, Germany) 97
Electron impact mass spectrometry of oxindole, pseudoindoxyle and indolenine derivatives
J.G. Rodríguez, A. Urrutia, L. Canoira (Madrid, Spain) 113
Structures and energetics of proton-bound formic acid-water clusters, $(HCOOH)_n(H_2O)H^+$
V. Aviyente (Istanbul, Turkey), R. Zhang (Barcelona, Spain), T. Varnalı (Istanbul, Turkey), C. Lifshitz (Jerusalem, Israel) . 123
Metastable ion study of organosilicon compounds. Part X. o-$CH_3C_6H_4COOSi(CH_3)_3$ and o-$CF_3C_6H_4COOSi(CH_3)_3$
S. Mori, R. Koitabashi, O. Sekiguchi, S. Tajima (Gunma, Japan) 133
Influence of support material on formation of electrocatalytic thin films—a secondary ion mass spectrometry study
C. Priccirillo, S. Daolio (Padova, Italy), J. Kristóf, J. Mihály (Veszprem, Hungary), B. Facchin, M. Fabrizio (Padova, Italy) 141
Experimental and theoretical study of the photoionization and dissociative photoionizations of dichlorodifluoromethane
L. Sheng, F. Qi, H. Gao, Y. Zhang, S. Yu (Anhui, People's Republic of China) W.-K. Li (Shatin, Hong Kong) 151
Reactivity of niobium cluster anions with nitrogen and carbons monoxide
J. Mwakapumba, K.M. Ervin (Reno, USA) 161
Activation of hydrogen and methane by thermalized FeO^+ in the gas phase as studied by multiple mass spectrometric technique
D. Schröder, H. Schwarz (Berlin, Germany), D.E. Clemmer, Y. Chen, P.B. Armentrout (Salt Lake City, USA), V.I. Baranov, D.K. Böhme (North York, Canada) 175
Site-specific lithium ion attachment directs low-energy dissociation pathways of dinucleotides in the gas phase. Application to nucleic acid sequencing by mass spectrometry
M.T. Rodgers, S.A. Campbell, J.L. Beauchamp (Pasadena, USA) 193

Iron isotope ratio measurement by negative thermal ionisation mass spectrometry using FeF_4^- molecular ions
T. Walczyk (Rüschlikon, Switzerland) 217

Announcement: 15th Informal Meeting on Mass Spectrometry 229

Author Index 231

Subject Index 233

Letters

Comment on the accuracy of thermodynamic data derived from studies of gas phase ion-molecule equilibria by the third law and van't Hoff methods
R.S. Mason, P.D.J. Anderson (Swansea, UK) L1

Time-resolved kinetic energy releases for $C_{60}^+ \rightarrow C_{58}^+ + C_2$
J. Laskin, C. Weickhardt, C. Lifshitz (Jerusalem, Israel) L7